Verbal Description:

The fragment is very smooth on the top surface. It is mostly a rectangular shape with one corner jutting out. Two sides appear to be actual sides but do not curve over quite as nicely as usual in other pieces. The broken sides are very rough and jagged. On the bottom there is an almost circular crater of sorts which appears to have been a foot which broke off. One of the broken sides opposite the crater, where it is broken it slants up just a bit before the broken edge and it appears that there was another foot there. The bottom is otherwise rough, not smooth and not glossy.
